

People are most willing to save on carbon through in-home energy saving measures and changing travel behaviour

Below is a representation of the carbon opportunity size of each action and area of actions (% of the Hampshire population willing to take an action multiplied by the amount of carbon saved for doing the action). Each panel represents the opportunity size of the action

